East-West Tension Said Easing After Big 3 Talks With Stalin

MOSCOW, Aug. 3.—Tension in East-West relations appeared relaxed today after last night's conference between Western envoys and Soviet Premier Stalin.

There was no official basis for this except the high spirits of the Western diplomats who talked for two hours with the top Russian leader.

The American and Anglo-French emissaries dispatched confidential reports to their home governments, and awaited instructions for their next step on the Berlin crisis.

Moscow newspapers printed brief notices of the meeting, but the government newspaper Izvestia also prominently displayed a story headlined "Americans Making Preparations To Leave Berlin."

THIS WAS a reprint of a Soviet-licensed German newspaper Vorwarts saying the U. S. military administration had discharged 8,000 employees in Berlin as part of a so-called "L Plan," or departure program.

London's foreign office spokesman said no meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers or top leaders is yet on the horizon and took the line of "neither optimism or pessimism" as a result of the talks.

French diplomatic sources in Paris said the length of the meeting with Stalin justified a "prudent optimism." But this was before the French ambassador's report was studied.

In Berlin, the East-West quarrel continued, with indications that the Russians in Berlin are re-routing long-distance telephone lines in a prelude to cutting telephone communications between the western sectors of the city and the western occupation zones.

U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith and the Anglo-French emissaries did not reveal any details of the meeting.

They also were silent when asked about the appearance of Stalin. The premier last was seen in public July 25 for the aviation parade. He appeared to be in excellent health at the time.

Frank Roberts, special envoy for British Foreign Secretary Bevin, has not made any arrangements to return home.

ALL PARTIES involved maintained tight-lipped silence regarding the discussions believed to involve not only a settlement of the Berlin problem but also the entire German question and Europe as well.

A brief statement made after the conference, which lasted from 9 p. m. until after 11 p. m., said that the talk was held in the presence of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Smith entered the Kremlin first, followed soon by Britain's special envoy, Roberts, and French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau.

Bayonets, Tanks Quell Disturbance

Tear Gas Used To Clear Crowd

DAYTON, Aug. 3.—The Ohio National Guard brought tear gas, tanks and fixed bayonets into play today as non-striking workers returned to their jobs at Dayton's strife-torn Univis Lens Co. plant.

Some 1,400 troops formed a shoulder-to-shoulder cordon around the plant area and at one time used five tear gas grenades to dispel a mob of 400 CIO-United Electrical Worker sympathizers.

The Guardsmen, called out last night by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, from 12 southwestern Ohio towns, faced the demonstrators with fixed bayonets. Only six pickets, authorized by court ruling, were allowed inside the cordon.

Medium tanks reinforcing the troops were called into play at one incident precipitated by spectators rather than pickets.

UMT Death Advocated

Big Army Men Say Draft Sufficient

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—A strong Army faction is urging the top command to drop Universal Military Training plans and concentrate on expanding troop strength and extending the draft.

It was disclosed today that this move is being taken by the faction which some months ago urged creation of a 27-division Army as compared to the 18 divisions obtained.

The group now argues that UMT is dead because Selective Service has been passed by Congress. It also points out that the draft act is effective for only two years.

Plans have been drawn up for presentation to Army Secretary Royall that call for all three objectives—an extended draft, a 27-division Army, and no UMT.

Commie Labels Are Placed On Diplomat, Treasury Ace

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—A former key State department official was named today as a one-time member of a Washington Communist ring and a former assistant secretary of the treasury was called a "fellow traveler."

Whittaker Chambers, admitted ex-Communist, identified Alger Hiss, former director of the State department Office of Special Political Affairs as a member of an "underground"

Communist group.

Chambers, testifying before the House UnAmerican Activities Committee, said that Harry Dexter White, former assistant treasury secretary, was a "fellow traveler... so far within the Communist fold that if he was not a Communist it would be a mistake on both sides."

The witness, now a magazine editor, said that in 1939 he reported his information on Communists in the government to

A. A. Berle, then assistant secretary of state.

HE SAID he had been told this was the way to pass the information on to President Franklin D. Roosevelt. He said Berle "showed excitement" but that "nothing was ever done" about the data he supplied.

Senate Night Session Set

Dixie Filibuster Holds Uncurbed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Republican leaders decided to continue today's Senate session until 10 o'clock tonight but admitted they had no hope of breaking the Southern Democratic anti-poll tax filibuster.

The decision to hold a night session was announced by GOP Policy Chairman Taft, (R) Ohio, after a meeting of the Senate policy committee.

He said the general Republican conference would decide tomorrow whether to hold further night sessions and also whether to try to take up consideration of an anti-poll tax constitutional amendment.

Southern Democrats have deadlocked the Republican attempt to consider a bill which would ban the poll tax, now exacted in seven Southern states.

The measures on the leadership discussion agenda has narrowed down to four points:

PASSENGER SLIGHTLY HURT

Local Man Is 18th Victim Of County Road Mishaps

Apparently fearful that his father was pursuing him, Charles E. Rittinger, 20, of Circleville Route 3, Monday night became Pickaway County's 18th traffic fatality of 1948.

His girl friend, Betty Binkley, 17, also of Circleville Route 3, suffered only minor cuts, bruises and shock, when the car in which they were riding overturned on Reber Hill road.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff said the accident occurred about 8:15 p. m., six miles northeast of Circleville, when Rittinger lost control of the automobile.

The crash survivor told the following story to Deputy Radcliff:

She said they drove past Rittinger's home on Route 188 when

WHEN GUARDSMEN separated their line to permit three new pickets to relieve those who had been on duty through the night, some 300 spectators surged through the opening.

There was no trouble as a medium tank rumbled back of the lines and herded the spectators back to their places.

Some 50 to 100 pickets milled around outside the lines but offered no trouble.

Meanwhile, the Montgomery CIO Council withdrew its support of the 99-day-old strike after participating in mass demonstrations the latter part of last week.

Council Secretary William Snoots said the group would not take part in future demonstrations.

Vatican Shaken By Small Bomb On Church Step

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 3.—The Vatican was shaken today by the explosion of a small bomb near the doorstep of St. Peter's Basilica, Christendom's largest shrine.

A Vatican spokesman termed it "the first attempt to bomb the Vatican... a bad symptom."

The pope was away at his Summer retreat and no casualties or serious damage occurred.

A street cleaner found the missile and summoned the troops. They found its safety pin pulled. They tossed sand and sacks on it and exploded it harmlessly.

Jews Ready New Attacks

More U.S. Troops To Aid Mediator

TEL AVIV, Aug. 3.—Israel threatened to renew all-out war against the Arabs today unless alleged truce violations are halted.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok told a news conference:

"There is no sign that the Arab states wish to turn the truce into peace."

Charging that the Egyptians are pressing an attack against Bir Asluj, 25 miles south of Beersheba, other Israeli officials said that the Jews will consider themselves free to attack at any point along the Egyptian front if the attack is not halted at once.

Shertok's chief of staff declared that indefinite prolongation of the truce is "unjustifiable" in view of continuing Arab violations.

Additional U. S. Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps observers are being dispatched to Rhodes. They bring to 125 those Americans assigned to observing the truce.

Yank Communists Rap Wall Street, Praise Wallace

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—American Communists gathered today in another session of their first national convention since 1945 to hear denunciations of Wall Street and praise of Henry Wallace's Progressive Party.

The Communist leadership, under indictment on charges of plotting to overthrow the government by force, prepared to hand down the latest "party line."

Indications from speeches made by National Chairman William Z. Foster and National Secretary Eugene Dennis were that it will stress a fight against the "war policy of the bipartisan conspirators."

Foster told a crowd of more than 15,000 at Madison Square Garden last night:

"In growing desperation the Wall Street monopolists are now preparing for war against the USSR. They hope to secure by military action the world domination which they could not get through diplomatic, financial and political pressures."

FOSTER took the opportunity to praise the Progressive Party and predicted that the Wallace-Taylor ticket will "rally hosts of workers, Negroes, farmers, and veterans."

Then he added angrily that those who say Communists are trying to dominate the new party are "brazen liars."

Yank Iron Men, Sprinters Gain Sweeping Victories

LONDON, Aug. 3.—American iron men scored an unprecedented record-breaking sweep victory in the Olympic shotput today and a few minutes later fragile-legged Pell Mel Patton won a comeback victory in the 200-meter dash.

Wilbur Thompson of Los Angeles won the shotput with a record heave to give the United States its 11th gold medal of the 14th Olympiad.

Two other Americans who finished first and second also shattered the old Olympic mark.

Patton, Southern California Navy veteran who was a disappointing fifth in the 100-meter dash Saturday, led another American, Barney Ewell, to the tape.

Patton, world record holder at 100 yards, won the event on a soggy Wembley stadium track in 21.1 seconds.

Ewell, at 31 an old timer as sprinters go, was at his shoulder and registered the same time. It was the second number two finish for the old Penn Stater who trailed Harrison Dillard of the United States in the 100 meters.

Thompson, a nervous athlete who made himself ill at the American tryouts last month, threw the iron ball 56 feet two inches.

F. James Dejaney of San Francisco, an old Notre Dame star, finished second and also eclipsed the old mark of 53 feet one 3/4 inches set by Hans Woellke of Germany at the Berlin Olympiad in 1936.

Dejaney got the ball out 54 feet 8 1/2 inches.

The third American in the clean-sweep finish—second of the day for the United States—was Jim Fuch, Yale football player. He got the 16-pound pellet out 53 feet 10 inches.

All three Americans in the 110-meter hurdles qualified in their trial heats with victories. Craig Dixon of UCLA was the fastest in 14.2.

President Sets Berlin Parley With Marshall

The chief executive had planned a conference at luncheon today, shortly after his return to the White House, but this was set aside without explanation.

Mr. Truman was smiling as he strolled from the presidential plane Independence. He told reporters who had accompanied him and who inquired about his plans:

"I am going to have lunch then go back to work. I'll be back in my office at 3 o'clock."

In response to questions about Congress, the President said he had no plans to send any new messages to Congress this week.

Fishermen Claim Red Mines Seen

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 3—The Vancouver News-Herald, quoting deep-sea fishermen, said today that "definitely Russian" mines are menacing shipping off the British Columbia coast.

"The Vancouver News-Herald report of Russian mines is the first indication the navy has had of any mines other than Japanese having been sighted off the British Columbia coast. The report should be treated with caution. The navy is inclined to believe that these mines are of Japanese origin."

ment, commanded by Col. George Schiele of Cincinnati was ordered to the scene by Gov. Herbert. It was the first time state troops have been used in a major labor dispute since the bloody Youngstown "little steel" strike in 1937.

Herbert issued his orders after Dayton Mayor Louis Lohrey and Montgomery County Sheriff Ben H. Smith declared a state of emergency in the Dayton area and notified the chief executive local enforcement agencies could not cope with the situation.

THE GOVERNOR obviously was angered by what he termed "reputation" of an agreement which had been made Sunday to end the walkout. He charged the strikers with "breach of faith" and asserted:

"It is time the public knows about the Communist pattern followed in the conduct of this dispute."

"I have no alternative but to respond to the request of Dayton and Montgomery County authorities for assistance in maintaining law and order."

Cleric Is Held In Assault Case

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 3—A 40-year-old Roman Catholic priest was sued for $100,000 today by a pretty blonde woman, who charges he criminally attacked her.

The action was brought in Scioto County common pleas court by Rosemary Yuenger, 20, of Portsmouth.

It charges that the Rev. Father George Brown, former assistant pastor of Holy Redeemer church here, imprisoned her in a room and slapped, beat, kicked and criminally assaulted her.

The alleged attack took place at St. Ann's rectory in Columbus, where Miss Yuenger claims Father Brown took her to arrange for care of her child by a former marriage.

As every motorist knows, gasoline mileage varies with terrain, temperature, traffic conditions, speed, and individual driver habits.

But here, in the chart at right, you'll get a good idea of the gasoline economy you can expect from a new Packard... thanks to Packard's new "free-breathing" engine design.

These figures—taken from a survey among hundreds of new Packard owners from coast to coast—cover the highway performance of the 130-horsepower Packard Eight, with overdrive. (Packard overdrive is optional equipment, at moderate extra cost. It is being ordered on a majority of the new Packards.)

Rittinger was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital. He suffered a fractured neck and a crushed left side in investigating officers said.

Ross told Radcliff he saw the car go out of control but a rise in the road prevented him from seeing the accident. However, when he arrived at the scene within seconds Miss Binkley was attempting to free herself from the wreckage.

He said the girl fainted when he got her out of the car.

Funeral services for young Rittinger will be held at 9 a. m. Thursday in St. Joseph's Catholic church with the Rev. Fr. Edward J. Reidy officiating. Rosary will be recited in the home at 8 p. m. Wednesday.

ARRANGEMENTS will be handled by the Mader funeral home with burial to be made in St. Joseph's cemetery. Friends may call at the chapel from noon until 9:30 a. m. Wednesday.

Born April 19, 1928, in Brownsville, Pa., he was a son of Charles Rittinger. The victim came to Pickaway County in 1931 and was employed as a farmer.

Young Rittinger was a member of Holy Name Society and was graduated by Circleville high school last June.

A brother, Richard, survives at home.

Now Deputy Sees Saucers

Here we go again—

A fiery "flying saucer" was reported seen about 9 p. m. Monday by Deputy Sheriff Vern L. Pontious while on a tour of duty on the Tarlton Pike.

The deputy said he first believed it to be a reflection in the sky but declared he watched it for a couple minutes while it travelled in a southwesterly direction.

Pontious said it appeared like a white ball followed by a misty haze with four or five tails.

Firemen Douse Minor Blazes

Two minor auto fires were extinguished by Circleville firemen Monday.

The first call came at 2:05 p. m. when ignition wires on Guy Rader's car began burning on Western Avenue between Union and Mill streets.

The other call came at 9:45 p. m. when the Charles Rittinger auto, involved in the crash fatal to the driver on Route 188, began burning as it was towed into the Harden-Stevenson lot. Cause of the fire was unknown.

ment, commanded by Col. George Schiele of Cincinnati, was ordered to the scene by Gov. Herbert. It was the first time state troops have been used in a major labor dispute since the bloody Youngstown "little steel" strike in 1937.

Herbert issued his orders after Dayton Mayor Louis Lohrey and Montgomery County Sheriff Ben H. Smith declared a state of emergency in the Dayton area and notified the chief executive local enforcement agencies could not cope with the situation.

THE GOVERNOR obviously was angered by what he termed "repudiation" of an agreement which had been made Sunday to end the walkout. He charged the strikers with "breach of faith" and asserted:

"It is time the public knows about the Communist pattern followed in the conduct of this dispute."

"I have no alternative but to respond to the request of Dayton and Montgomery County authorities for assistance in maintaining law and order."

Cleric Is Held In Assault Case

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 3.—A 40-year-old Roman Catholic priest was sued for $100,000 today by a pretty blonde woman, who charges he criminally attacked her.

The action was brought in Scioto County common pleas court by Rosemary Yuenger, 20, of Portsmouth.

It charges that the Rev. Father George Brown, former assistant pastor of Holy Redeemer church here, imprisoned her in a room and slapped, beat, kicked and criminally assaulted her.

The alleged attack took place at St. Ann's rectory in Columbus, where Miss Yuenger claims Father Brown took her to arrange for care of her child by a former marriage.

"Free-breathing" gas miser!

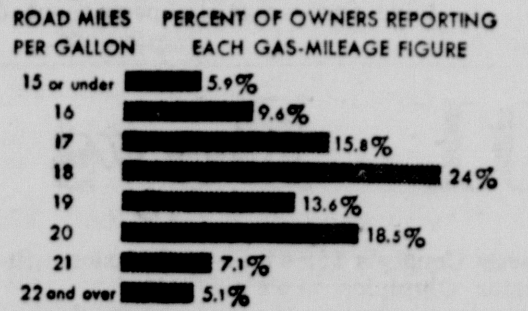

As every motorist knows, gasoline mileage varies with terrain, temperature, traffic conditions, speed, and individual driver habits.

But here, in the chart at right, you'll get a good idea of the gasoline economy you can expect from a new Packard... thanks to Packard's new "free-breathing" engine design.

These figures—taken from a survey among hundreds of new Packard owners from coast to coast—cover the highway performance of the 130-horsepower Packard Eight, with overdrive. (Packard overdrive is optional equipment, at moderate extra cost. It is being ordered on a majority of the new Packards.)

Study these national figures. And then come in for a complete local review of the power story of the year!

Many Ills Start With Worries

Doctor Details Psychiatry

Worry causes many illnesses. Finding the cause of the worry is the modern physician's primary job.

These were the high points of a talk on psychiatry given Circleville Kiwanis Club at its Monday evening meeting at Pickaway Country Club.

Speaker was Dr. E. S. Garrett, chief psychiatrist at Chillicothe veterans hospital.

Dr. Garrett, giving a layman's description of psychiatry, said the word means that brand of medical science which deals with a human being's action in his environment—or, simply, how he acts.

The psychiatrist, who has been in the profession for 12 years, declared that man will react differently each time his environment is changed.

HE SAID that the dividing line between a normal and an abnormal person is very fine.

He said that a person may find that a certain song or tune keeps returning continually to a person. This is perfectly normal, Dr. Garrett said.

But if a person suddenly believes he is "Napoleon and starts riding up and down on a broomstick," then he is abnormal.

Modern psychiatry is definitely modern, Dr. Garrett said. The French are credited with being the first to view abnormal behavior as an illness and this came only this century.

Even within the lifetime of our own young nation, some persons were classed as "witches" and attempts were made to cure them with burnings and ducking stools.

In old days, the psychiatrist declared, any illness was claimed due to one of four humors: blood, black bile, yellow bile and phlegm.

Efforts were made to "cure" with purges and bleeding. If thought to be a mental case, the patient was tortured or shocked.

LATER, a period of thought, known as Freudianism, was developed in which doctors established the difference between the conscious and the subconscious minds.

Dr. Garrett detailed his statement that "worry causes many illnesses" by citing the case of an ex-service man who was treated at the Chillicothe hospital.

The GI had been stationed in France and after VE-Day went to Paris. He took three packs of American cigarettes to a bistro where he ordered wine. A Frenchman offered the GI $2 for a pack of the cigarettes. The GI made the trade.

Later, the GI returned to his barracks and there brooded over the transaction. Worry developed. He could not sleep. Next day, worry led him to believe his buddies were talking about him being a black marketer. The worry grew still further. Suicide was attempted. He eventually was transferred to Chillicothe for treatment.

Doctors were able to penetrate into the GI's subconscious following an injection of a drug which left the man semi-conscious and willing to talk.

When the doctors found the original cause for the worry, they were able to affect treatment.

This, Dr. Garrett said, is the job of psychiatry. Once the basic cause of the worry or mental anguish is ascertained, cure in the majority of cases is obtainable.

Tennessee Poll To Get Look-See

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—A special House campaign committee announced today that agents have been sent to Tennessee to watch for election law violations in the Aug. 5 primary.

Rep. Rizley, (R) Okla., committee chairman, declared in a statement that the action was taken as a result of "numerous rumors and complaints."

Rizley stated that committee agents learned that "certain interested parties," who were not named, planned to seek political advantage in some districts by avoiding the use of voting machines and by establishing polling booths in out-of-way places.

Model Jet Plane Booked For Demonstration Here

Circleville will get its first demonstration of a jet airplane Thursday evening.

It will be a miniature demonstration since the plane will be a miniature jet ship.

Yet, this job, weighing hardly more than a pound, has been clocked at about 145 miles per hour.

The demonstration will be at the softball field in Ted Lewis Park at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

There will be no admission charge to either the park or the grandstand.

Circleville Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the show.

The demonstration will be made by Edward R. Fischer of Chillicothe, leading Southern Ohio model plane builder and flier.

His jet ship actually is a pulse-jet job which is equipped with the same type jet used by the Nazis on their buzz-bombs during the recent unpleasantness.

FISCHER reports that his model flies on a 75-foot stranded cable with a pull test in excess of 100 pounds.

Normally, it takes four men to launch the tiny craft. One man (Fischer) is stationed in the center of the testing area to handle the wire controls, a second starts the jet working with a flow of air produced by an ordinary tire pump, a third ignites the non-lead gasoline and a fourth chokes the jet and assists the launching.

After that it is up to the man with the control wires to maintain flight of the craft as it gains altitude permitted by the control cables.

Fischer is to bring with him several ordinary gasoline-engine model airplanes. All are controlled by the wire cable method.

Spectators may take seats in the grandstand while Fischer operates from around second base.

The average conventional model airplane travels about 100 miles per hour. Record speed for these midget aircraft is 155.

Model planes on wire cables can perform practically all stunts known to regular aircraft. Spectators Thursday evening will see wing-overs, vertical 88, horizontal 88, clover leaf turns, inside and outside loops and inverted flying.

GASOLINE model planes cost about $25 for material, many long hours of work and patience for assembly. Actual model plane kit sells for about $55 with the Tom Thumb motor, which has a sparkplug smaller in diameter than a lead pencil, costing about $20.

Spectators will see some strange antics as the model planes are readied for launching. Neighbors to the park may be puzzled by the high, sputtering whine of the craft as they are warmed up. The sound is similar to an angry bumblebee. But local Kiwanians promise an unusual 45-minutes of entertainment and instruction for oldsters and youngsters alike.

OUTSIDE THE QUARREL

THE Syrian declaration to the United Nations Security Council that the Berlin quarrel among the big Four powers should be brought before the council is a prickling reminder that the rest of the nations are interested spectators to the backyard fuss in the German capital.

It is easily understandable that some of the spectators may fear, as suggested by the Syrian delegate, that the sparring among the Big Four is a real threat to the peace of the world. That fear has been felt also by those inside the quarrel.

The Berlin matter could be brought formally before the Security Council by any member nation, whether directly concerned or not. Such a development, occurring at an inopportune moment, could be embarrassing for all the Big Four powers. If the subject of Berlin is to go before the United Nations, it is fitting that one of the Big Four powers, which fathered the United Nations, should make the approach to that body.

But Russia is not likely to do so. The Western Powers cannot do it because they have not yet exhausted the possibilities of diplomatic negotiation. Apparently it behooves the Big Four to arrange a conference and get on with it, lest they be hauled into court on the complaint of some neighbor who tires of the wrangling.

OLD FAMILY BELIEF

IF AN American in the prime of life in the '80's viewed the national scene today, one news item would strike him as natural and familiar. This is the indorsement of reciprocal trade agreements by James G. Baline, New York banker.

The reason why this would seem familiar is that Baline's grandfather of the same name, the foremost Republican leader of his time, is now chiefly remembered, when statesmanship is discussed, for his advocacy of reciprocity. Baline, a protectionist, believed that protection should lead to something else besides the profits of the producer. He wished to use American tariffs to open other countries' markets to American goods. The criterion by which he judged tariff legislation was, "Does it provide any new markets?"

Blaine left no successors among the party leaders. Reciprocity passed out of the Republican picture, but was never formally disavowed. Blaine's grandson is a Republican, and does not think himself disloyal to the party when he advocates renewal of the Trade Agreements act.

A landlord is accused of hiding his tenant's windows. Few eras in history have produced so many novel ideas for making a house uninhabitable.

George E. Sokolsky's
These Days

The American system of government differs from the British essentially in party responsibility. Under the British system, the prime minister is the chosen leader of his party. Should his party lose confidence in him, he would cease to be prime minister. He is elected only as a member of parliament; it is his position in the party that gives him his pre-eminence. That is true of every member of the British cabinet.

In the United States, the President is chosen in his own person. He may not even be a bona fide member of the party he appears to represent, as Wendell Willkie was not, or he may be a non-party person as Dwight Eisenhower undoubtedly is. He may not be the top-ranking leader of his party, which was true of Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Woodrow Wilson. He may contend against such a party leader as Al Smith, which Roosevelt did.

The result is that the American people vote for a man, not a party, a personality, not a principle. Franklin D. Roosevelt faced this fact candidly, organized a personal amalgam of dissident elements, forced his party to his will and ignored its existence. The Constitution provides for a vice-president. Usually only secondary persons are willing to take this position because a vice-president has nothing to do except preside over the Senate—a body in which he has no voice (except in a tie) and no authority. He is generally ignored while alive and forgotten at death. Important party leaders usually decline the honor.

Yet, within a few minutes after a President dies, the vice-president becomes the most important person in the country. Without the consent of the people, or of Congress, or of his own political party, he comes into possession of all the powers and authority of the President. Often selected for no good reason, he is in a position to do with his powers as he wills.

Lincoln was followed by Andrew Johnson in this manner. Johnson was unfit and fouled up reconstruction after the Civil War. Garfield was followed by Chester Arthur, who was a nonentity and a party hack. McKinley was followed by Theodore Roosevelt, who, while he made a wonderful President, was so little in tune with his party that he ultimately split it into factions. Harding was followed by Coolidge, who did better than his predecessor. Franklin Delano Roosevelt was followed by Harry Truman, who is beyond question maladroit, doing good things in a bad way, and who has split his party beyond redemption on basic national issues which require the most delicate handling.

Were the political party a responsible agency, its outstanding leader would serve as President and it would select his successor as a party procedure. But the political party plays no part in the structure of our government.

If you tried to get up a synthetic hand to teach someone his first lesson in the "suit preference" signal, you could hardly have done better than frame up this deal, produced by standard shuffling in a rubber game.

East was a player well versed in many of the game's intricacies, but did not know how good or how bad his new partner was. So, when the heart K was led, he saw at once that he wanted a switch on the next trick to diamonds in preference to the lower-ranking clubs. He consequently played his 10 on the heart lead. West, noting the height of the card, repeated the suit, with the A, and thereby presented South a game, doubled, on a silver platter. South of course ruffed, took out trumps in two rounds and then discarded a losing diamond on the heart Q. So he lost only two diamonds and one heart.

Who would be helped by a second heart lead? If West had asked himself that simple question, he would have realized that the declarer would be aided by it. Therefore East had a different purpose, which could only be that he preferred the higher-ranking diamonds instead of clubs. In such a spot, that would be only the natural meaning of the signal. Obviously a switch to a diamond would have produced three tricks in the suit and beaten the contract.

SYNOPSIS

Mysterious Rosaleen Cloade will inherit the vast Cloade fortune unless master detective Hercule Poirot can prove that she is not the legal widow of Gordon Cloade, killed in an air raid. Lynn Marchmont returns from the war to find her mother—Rosaleen—dead. In dire distress, her fiancé, Rowley Cloade, a greatly changed man.

CHAPTER EIGHT

THE "party," arranged ostensibly to celebrate Lynn's homecoming, was merely a family affair.

Aunt Kathie greeted her niece affectionately.

"So nice and brown you look, my dear. Egypt, I suppose. Did you read the book on the Pyramid prophecies I sent you?"

Lynn was saved from replying by the entrance of Mrs. Gordon Cloade and her brother David.

"This is my niece, Lynn Marchmont, Rosaleen."

Lynn looked at Gordon Cloade's widow with decorously veiled curiosity.

Yes, she was lovely, this girl who had married old Gordon Cloade for his money. And it was true what Rowley had said, that she had an air of innocence. Black hair, set in loose waves, Irish blue eyes put in with the smutty finger—hair parted lips.

The rest of her was predominantly expensive. Dress, jewels, manicured hands, fur cape. Quite a good figure, but she didn't really, know how to wear expensive clothes. Didn't wear them as Lynn Marchmont could have worn them, given half a chance! (But you never will have a chance, said a voice in her brain.)

"How do you do," said Rosaleen Cloade.

She turned hesitantly to the man behind her.

She said: "This—this is my brother."

"How do you do," said David Hunter.

He was a thin young man with dark hair and dark eyes. His face was unhappy and defiant and slightly insolent.

Lynn saw at once why all the Cloades disliked him so much. She had met men of that stamp abroad. Men who were reckless and slightly dangerous. Men who made their own laws and flouted the universe.

Lynn said conversationally to Rosaleen:

"And how do you like living at Furrowbank?"

"I think it's a wonderful house," said Rosaleen.

David Hunter gave a faint sneering laugh.

"Poor old Gordon did himself well," he said. "No expense spared." It was literally the truth. When Gordon had decided to settle down in Warmley Vale—or rather had decided to spend a small portion of his busy life there, he had chosen to build.

He had employed a young modern architect and given him a free hand. Half Warmley Vale thought Furrowbank a dreadful house, disliking its white squareness, its built-in furnishing, its sliding doors, and glass tables and chairs. The only part of it they really admired wholeheartedly were the bathrooms.

There had been awe in Rosaleen's. "It's a wonderful house," David's laugh made her flush.

"You're the returned Wren, aren't you?" said David to Lynn.

"Yes."

His eyes swept over her appraisingly—and for some reason, she flushed.

Aunt Katharine appeared again suddenly. She had a trick of seeming to materialize out of space.

"Supper," she said, rather breathlessly. "I think it's better than calling it dinner. People don't expect so much. Everything's very difficult, isn't it? Mary Lewis tells me she slips the fishman ten shillings every other week. I think that's immoral."

Dr. Lionel Cloade was giving his irritable nervous laugh as he talked to Frances Cloade. "Oh come, Frances," he said. "You can't expect me to believe you really think that—Let's go in."

They went into the shabby and rather ugly dining room. Jeremy and Frances, Lionel and Katharine, Adele, Lynn and Rowley, a family party of Cloades—with two outsiders. For Rosaleen Cloade, though she bore the name, had not become a Cloade as Frances and Katharine had done.

She was the stranger, ill at ease, nervous. And David—David was the outlaw. By necessity, but also by choice. Lynn was thinking these things as she took her place at the table.

There were waves in the air of feeling—a strong electrical current of—what was it? Hate? Could it really be hate?

Lynn thought suddenly, "But that's what's the matter everywhere. I've noticed it ever since I got home. It's the aftermath war has left. It'll ill feeling. It's everywhere. But here it's more than that. Here it's particular. It's meant."

And she thought, shocked: "Do we hate them so much? These strangers who have taken what we think is ours?"

And then—"No, not yet. We might—but not yet. No, it's they who hate us."

It seemed to her so overwhelming a discovery that she sat silent thinking about it and forgetting to talk to David Hunter who was sitting beside her.

Presently he said: "Thinking out something?"

His voice was quite pleasant, slightly amused.

She said, "I'm sorry. I was having thoughts about the state of the world."

David said coolly, "How extremely unoriginal!"

"Yes, it is rather. We are all so earnest nowadays. And it doesn't seem to do much good either."

Capital Highly Vulnerable In Atomic, Rocket Warfare

SPECIAL TO CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON—George Washington didn't suspect that the day would come when river navigation would give way to railroads, motor trucks and airplanes. So this great capital is today one of the world's most vulnerable national capitals in time of war, and its residents are hot under the collar from spring until fall.

The nation's first president could have established the nation's capital anywhere along an 80-mile stretch of the Potomac river in 1790. He decided that the Great Falls near the eastern end were too big an obstacle to river navigation for the city to be built at the western end.

So Williamsport, Md., is today a sleepy little town with 2,000 residents instead of the home of the United States government.

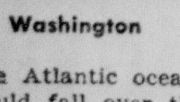

Williamsport put up a hard fight, but lost its effort to be the nation's capital. It is too late to do anything about the situation now, but the subsequent grumbling over the location of Washington has never died out.

Washington, as it stands today, lies in the middle of level country which offers no obstacles to invading armies. An amphibious landing on the shores of the Chesapeake bay could be made only 30 miles from the heart of the city.

Only 90 miles away is the Delaware bay, and the Atlantic ocean is only 100 miles away. Atomic-poisoned rain could fall over the city a few hours after A-bombs fell in that nearby water, if hostile powers learned atomic secrets.

Missiles similar to the V-2, launched from large submarines or ships just off the coast, would find Washington in easy range.

Then there is the weather. District of Columbians have a slogan: "If you don't like the weather, wait a minute." However, the summertime changes are usually in the direction of heat. Weather records show an annual average temperature of 55.3 degrees in Washington.

OUTSIDE THE QUARREL

THE Syrian declaration to the United Nations Security Council that the Berlin quarrel among the big four powers should be brought before the council is a prickling reminder that the rest of the nations are interested spectators to the backyard fuss in the German capital.

It is easily understandable that some of the spectators may fear, as suggested by the Syrian delegate, that the sparring among the Big Four is a real threat to the peace of the world. That fear has been felt also by those inside the quarrel.

The Berlin matter could be brought formally before the Security Council by any member nation, whether directly concerned or not. Such a development, occurring at an inopportune moment, could be embarrassing for all the Big Four powers. If the subject of Berlin is to go before the United Nations, it is fitting that one of the Big Four powers, which fathered the United Nations, should make the approach to that body.

But Russia is not likely to do so. The Western Powers cannot do it because they have not yet exhausted the possibilities of diplomatic negotiation. Apparently it behooves the Big Four to arrange a conference and get on with it, lest they be hauled into court on the complaint of some neighbor who tires of the wrangling.

Then there is the weather. District of Columbians have a slogan: "If you don't like the weather, wait a minute." However, the summertime changes are usually in the direction of heat. Weather records show an annual average temperature of 55.3 degrees in Washington.

The nearest weather station to Williamsport, where the city might have been founded, is at Clearspring, a half-dozen miles away, with an average annual temperature of 52.2, better than three degrees lower.

The average July temperature in Washington is 77.0 degrees, only 74.3 degrees in Clearspring. It rains an average of 124 days each year in Washington, only 112 days in Clearspring.

At this late date, no one is seriously going to think of moving the District of Columbia. However, it was proposed a lot of times before Washington grew to its present size. For years after 1790, Washington was called "Wilderness City" and "Capital of Misery Huts."

Resolutions for its removal appeared in Congress time after time. They grew louder when the British easily occupied the city in 1814, burning the Capitol, president's home, public office buildings and the navy yard.

Virginia took back its part of the District of Columbia in 1846, and the "Take it away!" cry grew louder. Gen. Jubal A. Early reached its outer fortifications in July, 1864, during the Civil war and was stopped from entering the city only by the timely arrival of a contingent of Grant's men.

George Washington thought enough of the prospects for Williamsport to pay that town a visit in 1790, before he decided on the site for the capital. The town had been founded only four years before by his old war buddy, Gen. Otho Holland Williams, who had become collector of the port of Baltimore after the Revolution.

The town was laid out with unusually wide streets, 80 feet in width, in hopes of becoming the capital. The residents had drawn up a petition to the Maryland general assembly, stating their willingness "to make every contribution toward the necessary accommodation of Congress that can reasonably be expected."

General Washington showed up in October, 1790, spent the night with the founder's brother, Elie Williams, in a house that still stands just outside Williamsport, then went his way. He didn't have many doubts about the matter. The roads were bad, and the capital of the nation would need river transportation of the finest kind.

The father of his country was right in one respect. The boats don't go up the river as far as Williamsport. However, the town lies snugly fitted in the valley between the Blue Ridge and Shenandoah mountain ranges. A lot of people strolling down Massachusetts avenue today wish they were as safe and as cool.

Yes, she was lovely, this girl who had married old Gordon Clode for his money. And it was true what Rowley had said, that she had an air of innocence. Black hair, set in loose waves, Irish blue eyes put in with the smutty finger—half parted lips.

The rest of her was predominantly expensive. Dress, jewels, manicured hands, fur cape. Quite a good figure, but she didn't really, know how to wear expensive clothes. Didn't wear them as Lynn Marchmont could have worn them, given half a chance! (But you never will have a chance, said a voice in her brain.)

"How do you do," said Rosaleen Clode.

She turned hesitantly to the man behind her.

She said: "This—is my brother."

"How do you do," said David Hunter.

He was a thin young man with dark hair and dark eyes. His face was unhappy and defiant and slightly insolent.

Lynn saw at once why all the Clodes disliked him so much. She had met men of that stamp abroad. Men who were reckless and slightly dangerous. Men who made their own laws and flouted the universe.

Lynn said conversationally to Rosaleen:

"And how do you like living at Furrowbank?"

"I think it's a wonderful house," said Rosaleen.

David Hunter gave a faint sneering laugh.

"Poor old Gordon did himself well," he said. "No expense spared."

It was literally the truth. When Gordon had decided to settle down in Warmley Vale—or rather had decided to spend a small portion of his busy life there, he had chosen to build.

He had employed a young modern architect and given him a free hand. Half Warmley Vale thought Furrowbank a dreadful house, disliking its white squareness, its built-in furnishing, its sliding doors, and glass tables and chairs. The only part of it they really admired wholeheartedly were the bathrooms.

There had been awe in Rosaleen's, "It's a wonderful house." David's laugh made her flush.

"You're the returned Wren, aren't you?" said David to Lynn.

"Yes."

His eyes swept over her appraisingly—and for some reason, she flushed.

Aunt Katharine appeared again suddenly. She had a trick of seeming to materialize out of space.

"Supper," she said, rather breathlessly, "I think it's better than calling it dinner. People don't expect so much. Everything's very difficult, isn't it? Mary Lewis tells me she slips the flannelette shillings every other week. I think that's immoral."

Dr. Lionel Clode was giving his irritable nervous laugh as he talked to Frances Clode. "Oh come, Frances," he said. "You can't expect me to believe you really think that—Let's go in."

They went into the shabby and rather ugly dining room. Jeremy and Frances, Lionel and Katharine, Adela, Lynn and Rowley. A family party of Clodes—with two outsiders. For Rosaleen Clode, though she bore the name, had not become a Clode as Frances and Katharine had done.

She was the stranger, ill at ease, nervous. And David—David was the outlaw. By necessity, but also by choice, Lynn was thinking these things as she took her place at the table.

There were waves in the air of feeling—a strong electrical current of—what was it? Hate? Could it really be hate?

Lynn thought suddenly, "But that's what's the matter everywhere. I've noticed it ever since I got home. It's the aftermath war has left. It will ill feeling. It's everywhere. But here it's more than that. Here it's particular. It's meant."

And she thought, shocked: "Do we hate them so much? These strangers who have taken what we think is ours?"

And then—"No, not yet. We might—but not yet. No, it's they who hate us."

It seemed to her so overwhelming a discovery that she sat silent thinking about it and forgetting to talk to David Hunter who was sitting beside her.

Presently he said:

"Thinking out something?"

His voice was quite pleasant, slightly amused.

She said, "I'm sorry. I was having thoughts about the state of the world."

David said coolly, "How extremely unoriginal!"

"Yes, it is rather. We are all so earnest nowadays. And it doesn't seem to do much good either."

"It is usually more practical to wish to do harm. We've thought up one or two rather practical gadgets in that line during the last few years—including the Atom Bomb."

"That was what I was thinking about—oh, I don't mean the Atom Bomb. I meant ill will. Definite practical ill will."

David said calmly:

"I'll certainly—but I rather take issue to the word practical. They were more practical about it in the Middle Ages."

"How do you mean?"

"Black magic generally. Ill wishing. Wax figures. Spells at the turn of the moon. Killing off your neighbor's cattle, your neighbor himself."

"You don't really believe there was such a thing as black magic?" asked Lynn incredulously.

"Perhaps not. But at any rate people did try hard. Nowadays, well—" He shrugged his shoulders, "with all the ill will in the world you and your family can't do much about Rosaleen and myself, can you?"

Lynn's head went back with a jerk. Suddenly she was enjoying herself.

"It's a little late in the day for that," she said politely.

David Hunter laughed.

"Meaning we've got away with the booty? Yes, we're sitting pretty all right."

"And you get a kick out of it?"

"Out of having a lot of money? I say we do."

"I didn't mean only the money. I meant out of us."

"Out of having scored off you? Well, perhaps. You'd all been pretty smug and complacent about the old boy's cash. Looked upon it as practically in your pockets already."

Lynn said:

"You must remember that we'd been taught to think so for years. Taught not to save, not to think of the future—encouraged to go ahead with all sorts of schemes and projects."

"Only one thing, in fact, that you hadn't learnt!" said David pleasantly.

"What's that?"

"That nothing's safe."

"Lynn!" cried Aunt Katharine, leaning forward from the head of the table, "one of Mrs. Lester's controls is a fourth dynasty priest. He's told us such wonderful things. You and I, Lynn, must have a long talk. Egypt, I feel, must have affected you physically."

Dr. Clode said sharply:

"Lynn's had better things to do than play about with all this superstitious tomfoolery."

"You are so biased, Lionel," said his wife.

Lynn smiled at her aunt—then sat silent with the refrain of the words David had spoken swimming in her brain.

"Nothing's safe..."

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Harold Stassen is looking for a house in Philadelphia. It must be white and on the road to Washington.

If Harold finds an empty house, many will agree that he has superior talents overlooked at Philadelphia.

Not that plenty of low cost housing is not on the way. The only thing blocking it currently is an absence of low costs.

But just as soon as Congress gets around to it we will see low cost housing built by legislation. A greater miracle than prefab.

However there is little hope that the special session of Congress will give Mr. Truman much more than an extra inning headache.

He is one of the few Presidents on record who has said "I resent the treatment Congress has given me. Please come back and do it some more."

U.S. Women Design Fall Fashions

Women of USA have sounded the knell of the "new look" by using plain common sense and dictating a Fall mode that is wearable, flattering and strictly American.

Skirt lengths are stabilized at 11 inches from the floor for street wear, slightly longer for cocktail and afternoon dresses, ankle length for dinner dresses and floor length only for formal gowns.

Suit skirts are slim and streamlined. Dress skirts have fullness drawn slim through the hips to the rear. Still very good according to fashion leaders are buffants and draped lines for afternoon dresses. Some gowns feature low décolletages and sheathlike cuts as to sophisticated lines.

Gray, in all tones, predominates the Fall colors with smoke shades the favorite according to fashion leaders. Also noted are blue and muted tones of plum, dark hunter's green and wine.

PROVEN Reducing Method MAKES HOT SUMMERS More Enjoyable!

Hot summer months mean uncomfortable weary days to those carrying around excess bulky fat. Renne Concentrate, in liquid form for quicker action, is simple to make—simple to take. Mixed with unsweetened grapefruit juice as per instructions on bottle and kept in the ice box, this cool preparation is easy to take in hot weather. Unlike tablets which are expensive to manufacture, you get a low priced premium product in Renne. Thousands have discovered this amazing formula to be the safe economical method for losing weight.

No need to starve yourself or buy expensive vitamins to supplement your eating while following a rigid unpleasant diet. With Renne you won't have to go hungry. Eat normal, regular meals yet reduce in the comfort of your own home and enjoy wearing the smart new look fashions even in the hottest weather. You may obtain Renne at your drug store. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to reduce; if reducible pounds and inches of uncomfortable excess fat don't seem to disappear almost like magic, just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back.

Isalys Cop First Game In Tourney

Richards '9' Due For Wednesday Tilt

Isalys softball team won their district softball tournament opener at Portsmouth Monday night, defeating Scottys Sports-Goods of Portsmouth 5-2.

Only two innings of the Monday night encounter were used for scoring purposes, Scottys posting single tallies in each of the first and sixth innings and Isalys registering three runs in the first inning and added two in the sixth.

Stillman Morrison went the route on the mound for the Circleville team, giving up four hits, walking one and whiffing three.

Isalys shortstop Bob Steele scored the most runs in the game, one in each the first and sixth frames, while Ansel Roof garnered the most hits.

NEXT CIRCLEVILLE participation in the 34-team district tourney is to be at 8 p. m. Wednesday, when Richards softball team plays William Cobblers of Portsmouth. Richards last year won the district contest.

$50,000 Await Golfers Entered At Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—The nation's leading professional, amateur and women golfers started getting in each other's way as usual today as they roamed the links at Tam O'Shanter, seeking goldfom's richest prizes in the theatrical All-American championships.

George S. May's annual three ring circus was, to be sure, slightly enhanced this year. It boasted seven rings, there being, besides the All-American professional, amateur and women's tournaments, four special two-day "world championship" events—one each for men and women professionals and men and women amateurs.

The 72-hole, medal play All-Americans will run from today through Friday, and the "world championship" events will run concurrently Saturday and Sunday over the challenging Tam O'Shanter links.

The only thing that seemed to be missing from the whole picture is Ben Hogan, the PGA and National Open champion who last year stated that May "does nothing for the dignity of golf." Hogan does not plan to be on hand and to compete in the $30,072 All-American professional tournament that carries a $5,000 first prize.

Whatever compromise may be involved, Hogan does plan to show up Saturday and Sunday for the "world championship" tourney, which he won last year. The prize purse is $10,000—winner take all.

In all, close to $50,000 in prize money is up as bait this year, making the All-American once again the richest golfing show in the land.

Hoot Mon Sold, Sent To Stud

WESTBURY, N. Y., Aug. 3—Hoot Mon, the coal-black trotting ace, has been retired to stud.

Castleton Farms' four-year-old colt, which last year won the Hambletonian in a record two-minutes flat, was sold yesterday to the Hanover Shoe Farm for a price estimated at about $75,000. Lawrence B. Sheppard, head man at Hanover, announced that Hoot Mon would be placed in stud, probably to succeed Spencer Scott.

$80,000 Signer

DETROIT, Aug. 3—The Detroit Tigers today announced the signing of 18-year-old Catcher Frank House of Bessemer, Ala., at the highest bonus ever paid in baseball. The club refused to reveal the amount of the bonus, but it had previously been rumored as $80,000.

Hogan Convincing All Experts He Is Tops In Golfing Machines

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—Little Ben Hogan is rapidly beginning to convince assorted on-lookers that he is the greatest golfing machine currently in the business.

Could he have beaten the great Bobby Jones? Nobody knows. Could he have beaten Byron Nelson? He never did.

However, as he stands now, with Jones long since relegated to the role of weekend golfer and Nelson almost equally inactive, Hogan is by far the best man around with driver and putter and all the implements between.

He won the Western Open at Buffalo yesterday to become the first man ever to hold the National Open, the National Pro title and the Western at the same time, but what's equally important is the way he took the Buffalo event.

HOGAN shot a 33-31-64, eight under par to defeat Porky Oliver by nine strokes in a playoff after they had deadlocked Sunday. Oliver carded a 73, one over par.

Hogan's score knocked two strokes off of the record for the

Brookfield course and beat back Oliver with such thoroughness that before the match was over the big Seattle pro simply was hanging on.

The win also, of course, boosted Hogan farther to the front as the year's leading money-winner among the travellers of the tournament trail.

He now has slightly more than $25,000 and unless he suddenly decides to take a much-needed rest he probably will break the all-time peacetime record for a year's golf earnings in the regular tournaments.

Indians Ramble On, Leaving AA Foes Behind

By International News Service
Those two major league wearers of the Redskins trademark, the Cleveland Indians and Boston Braves, can profit by the example of their American Association counterpart, Indianapolis.

The AAA league Indians are making a complete runaway of the race in their division.

A double victory last night over St. Paul, 4 to 3 and 7 to 6, put Indianapolis 10-1/2 games in front of the pack. The Tribe now has won 12 of its last 13 games and its last seven in a row.

Reflecting what has happened to the Tribe's opposition, Milwaukee lost its 12th straight game last night, 4 to 1, to Louisville. Nevertheless, the Brewers are still in second place.

In a battle for fourth position, Minneapolis downed Columbus, 8 to 5, to stay in the first division.

Kansas City pushed over two runs in the tenth inning to defeat Toledo, 7 to 6.

Park Diamond Isolated; No Games In Sight

A dark and empty Ted Lewis Park softball diamond greeted Circleville softball fans Monday night, with no exhibition game or other activity scheduled.

And, according to park softball heads, the diamond is not to be lighted until Thursday night. The Circleville exhibition softball games are suffering this week because of the many tournaments in which Circleville teams are participating.

Although the softball heads promise games Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, no schedules have been set up.

Swedes Ready For '52 Games

LONDON, Aug. 3—Take it from Sweden's Dr. Siegfried Edstrom—the 1952 Olympic games will be held in Helsinki despite Russia's iron curtain.

The international president of the Olympic committee indignantly spurned a transfer to either the United States or Australia and said it is the last thing "we would do"—for two reasons:

1. The Swedes are getting strong again and will react favorably to an influx of nations.
2. It will put Soviet Russia on the defensive, either forcing it to take drastic action or none at all.

Indians Pilot Sees Nats Tilt As 'Big One'

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3—According to Manager Lou Boudreau, tonight's game with the Washington Nats is "the big one" for the Cleveland Indians.

However, the American League pennant race has become so close that the Indians pilot has come to regard every contest the one that might make or break the club.

Satchel Paige, the ageless wonder, is slated to pitch tonight's game, the first in a two-game series with the Nats. His probable opponent will be Early Wynn.

While the Clevelanders were in Washington last month they played four games with the Capital City charges. Three of them were decided by one run, two went extra innings and one was a defeat.

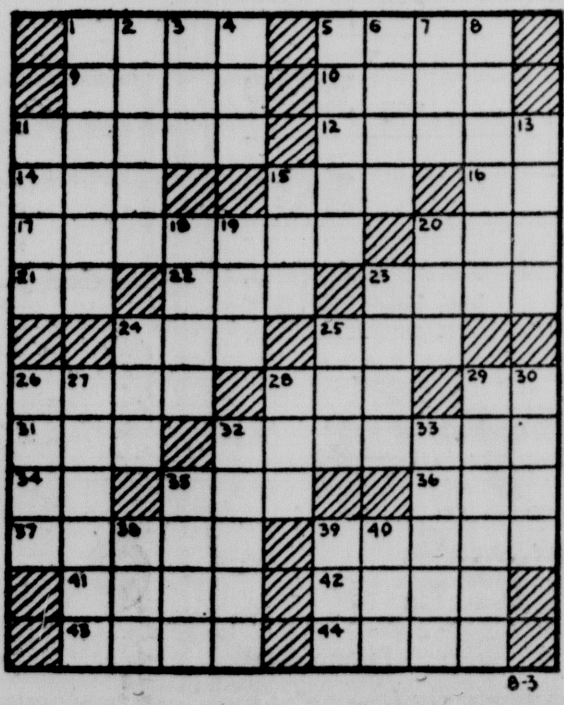

In order to recapture first place, the Indians must defeat the Nats and the Athletics, who lead the Tribe by five percentage points, must lose to the Chicago White Sox.

The Indians have an open date tomorrow and then meet the Nats in the series finale Thursday with Gene Bearden scheduled to go to the mound for the Indians.

Friday night the New York Yankees open a four-game stand and Boudreau plans to use Bob Feller. Bob Lemon will hurl Saturday.

$50,000 Await Golfers Entered At Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—The nation's leading professional, amateur and women golfers started getting in each other's way as usual today as they roamed the links at Tam O'Shanter, seeking goldfod's richest prizes in the theatrical All-American championships.

George S. May's annual three ring circus was to be sure, slightly enhanced this year. It boasted seven rings, there being, besides the All-American professional, amateur and women's tournaments, four special two-day "world championship" events—one each for men and women professionals and men and women amateurs.

The 72-hole, medal play All-Americans will run from today through Friday, and the "world championship" events will run concurrently Saturday and Sunday over the challenging Tam O'Shanter links.

The only thing that seemed to be missing from the whole picture is Ben Hogan, the PGA and National Open champion who last year stated that May "does nothing for the dignity of golf." Hogan does not plan to be in and to compete in the $30,072 All-American professional tournament that carries a $5,000 first prize.

Whatever compromise may be involved, Hogan does plan to show up Saturday and Sunday for the "world championship" tourney, which he won last year. The prize purse is $10,000—winner take all.

In all, close to $50,000 in prize money is up as bait this year, making the All-American once again the richest golfing show in the land.

Hoot Mon Sold, Sent To Stud

WESTBURY, N. Y., Aug. 3—Hoot Mon, the coal-black trotting ace, has been retired to stud.

Castleton Farms' four-year-old colt, which last year won the Hambletonian in a record two minutes flat, was sold yesterday to the Hanover Shoe Farm for a price estimated at about $75,000.

Lawrence B. Sheppard, head man at Hanover, announced that Hoot Mon would be placed in stud, probably to succeed Spencer Scott.

$80,000 Signer

DETROIT, Aug. 3—The Detroit Tigers today announced the signing of 18-year-old Catcher Frank House of Bessemer, Ala., at the highest bonus ever paid in baseball. The club refused to reveal the amount of the bonus, but it had previously been rumored as $80,000.

Hogan Convincing All Experts He Is Tops In Golfing Machines

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—Little Ben Hogan is rapidly beginning to convince assorted on-lookers that he is the greatest golfing machine currently in the business.

Could he have beaten the great Bobby Jones? Nobody knows. Could he have beaten Byron Nelson? He never did.

However, as he stands now, with Jones long since relegated to the role of weekend golfer and Nelson almost equally inactive, Hogan is by far the best man around with driver and putter and all the implements between.

He won the Western Open at Buffalo yesterday to become the first man ever to hold the National Open, the National Pro title and the Western at the same time, but what's equally important is the way he took the Buffalo event.

HOGAN shot a 33-31-64, eight under par to defeat Porky Oliver by nine strokes in a playoff after they had deadlocked Sunday. Oliver carded a 73, one over par.

Hogan's score knocked two strokes off of the record for the

Brookfield course and beat back Oliver with such thoroughness that before the match was over the big Seattle pro simply was hanging on.

The win also, of course, boosted Hogan farther to the front as the year's leading money-winner among the travellers of the tournament trail.

He now has slightly more than $25,000 and unless he suddenly decides to take a much-needed rest he probably will break the all-time peacetime record for a year's golf earnings in the regulation tournaments.

Indians Ramble On, Leaving AA Foes Behind

By International News Service
 Those two major league wearers of the Redskins trademark, the Cleveland Indians and Boston Braves, can profit by the example of their American Association counterpart, Indianapolis.

The AAA league Indians are making a complete runaway of the race in their division.

A double victory last night over St. Paul, 4 to 3 and 7 to 6, put Indianapolis 10½ games in front of the pack. The Tribe now has won 12 of its last 13 games and its last seven in a row.

Reflecting what has happened to the Tribe's opposition, Milwaukee lost its 12th straight game last night, 4 to 1, to Louisville. Nevertheless, the Brewers are still in second place.

In a battle for fourth position, Minneapolis downed Columbus, 8 to 5, to stay in the first division.

Kansas City pushed over two runs in the tenth inning to defeat Toledo, 7 to 6.

Park Diamond Isolated; No Games In Sight

A dark and empty Ted Lewis Park softball diamond greeted Circleville softball fans Monday night, with no exhibition game or other activity scheduled.

And, according to park softball heads, the diamond is not to be lighted until Thursday night.

The Circleville exhibition softball games are suffering this week because of the many tournaments in which Circleville teams are participating.

Although the softball heads promise games Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, no schedules have been set up.

Swedes Ready For '52 Games

LONDON, Aug. 3—Take it from Sweden's Dr. Siegfried Edstrom—the 1952 Olympic games will be held in Helsinki despite Russia's iron curtain.

The international president of the Olympic committee indignantly spurned a transfer to either the United States or Australia and said it is the last thing "we would do"—for two reasons:

1. The Swedes are getting strong again and will react favorably to an influx of nations.
2. It will put Soviet Russia on the defensive, either forcing it to take drastic action or none at all.

Cincinnati '9 Pacing Legion Ball Tourney

COLUMBUS, Aug. 3—Cincinnati Post 437—the team that knocked out a three-time state champion in its own section—tangles with Sugar Creek today in the feature of the double-elimination tourney to determine the American Legion baseball titlists of Ohio.

Cincinnati hung a convincing 6-1 victory on Columbus Post 276 in the opening round, scoring five runs in a big fourth inning. Sugar Creek blasted Zanesville Post 29 in an almost unbelievable parade of runs, 21 to 6, although getting credit for only 11 hits.

In other games, Lancaster beat Youngstown, 3-1; Mansfield, on 22 hits, snowed under Cleveland, 30 to 5; Springfield tripped Marion, 15 to 6; Cuyahoga Falls beat Portsmouth, 8 to 4, and Lima edged Port Clinton, 6 to 5.

Other pairings today pit Portsmouth against Cleveland, Port Clinton against Youngstown, Columbus against Zanesville, Marion against Lancaster, Cuyahoga Falls against Lima, and Mansfield against Springfield.

Favorites Hold In Tennis Meet

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 3—All favorites in the national junior and boys' tennis championships moved into the second round—and some into the third—today at Kalamazoo college.

Top-seeded Dick Mouldous of New Orleans swept into the second round in the junior division with a 6-0, 5-4 victory over Dick Smith of Chicago.

Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, ranked second and considered a definite threat to Mouldous' chances of winning the crown, drew a first round bye and then eliminated Roger Coad of Winfield, Kan., 6-4, 6-1.

Defending champion and top-ranked Bob Perry of Los Angeles was not extended in winning his first-round boys' match from Joe Dickson of Pittsburgh, 6-1, 6-3.

Freedom Train Show Planned

COLUMBUS, Aug. 3—George M. Trautman, head of baseball's minor leagues, and Ohio State University Football Coach Wesley Fesler will head a large-scale sports program Sept. 3 in conjunction with the visit of the Freedom Train to Columbus.

Trautman and Fesler were named committee chairmen last night as plans were made for the event. The sports program, held at Ohio Stadium, will feature Youth Day observances.

Youth from eight Central Ohio counties will participate in the Olympic-type program, which will include baseball, football, softball and group games.

1,240 Golfers Set For Memphis Test

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—The national amateur golf tournament had record entry today to match the unprecedented list for the recent national open.

The United States Golf Association announced that 1,240 golfers filed applications before the deadline yesterday. This breaks the 13-year record of 1,118 entries filed in 1946.

The 1,240 entries will be reduced to 201 qualifiers through a series of 34 sectional tests. Winners will join nine former American and British amateur champions in the championship proper at Memphis Country Club.

Deep-Root Legumes Claimed Tools For Hard-Packed Soil

Low Crop Yield Cited By Expert

Plowed Grasses Being Urged

Deep-rooted legumes can be used as tools for making "pay dirt" out of heavy, hard packed soil, Larry A. Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent, declared Tuesday.

"The 'bottom' soils on thousands of midwestern farms are so tightly compacted best declares "that crop growth is seriously hampered.

"Such soils have lost their nourishing cushion of organic matter because of overcropping. Soil structure has been broken down by failure to include well-fertilized deep-rooted legumes and grasses in the rotation. Soil particles have become closely jammed together. Channels for roots, air and water have been sealed off.

"Rain does not soak into compacted soils. Drainage is poor. Roots of corn and grain cannot penetrate below the topsoil for water and plant nutrients. The shallow soil layer near the surface is the sole source of 'room and board'.

"THE RESULT is weak root development, stunted, ill-nourished growth above ground and low crop yields.

"These tightly closed soils can be unlocked by deep-rooted legumes. The tap-roots of sweet clover or alfalfa well fertilized with phosphorus and potash drill straight down into the soil. They penetrate not only the plow sole, but push on down 18 to 25 inches into the subsoil below. They loosen the soil and put organic matter down in the 'basement'.

"When these well-fertilized legumes are plowed under or disced in deeply they add tons of precious organic matter to the soil.

"This organic matter builds soil structure. It keeps the soil loose so that rain is soaked up more rapidly," he adds.

"Once the missionary work of sweet clover and alfalfa is accomplished other crops following in the rotation can freely send their roots deeper for oxygen, plant food and water. Then you get much higher crop yields."

Mass Funeral Held For 175

LUDWIGSHAVEN, Aug. 3.—Mass funeral rites were held today for victims of the devastating explosions which leveled part of the I. G. Farben plant in Ludwigshaven.

The services were attended by Gen. Pierre Koenig, commander of the French zone of occupation, representatives of the other three military governments and top-ranking German leaders.

Rescue workers thus far have removed more than 175 bodies from the blasted ruins. An estimated 75 other victims are believed still missing, and around 200 of 2,500 injured are still in hospitals.

Italian Predicts Europe Combine

ROME, Aug. 3.—Italian Premier Alcide de Gasperi held today that the Marshall Plan must lead to the establishment of a European federation if it is to have any permanent results.

De Gasperi, speaking at the final session of the international conference of Christian Democrats, said the first step in any such federation must be the creation of an Italian-French customs union.

The Italian leader also forecast that the abstention of iron curtain countries from the European Recovery Program is only a "momentary and formal matter."

No More Tax On Small Buys

COLUMBUS, Aug. 3.—The one-cent sales tax is no more. Effective yesterday, Ohio's three percent sales tax was eliminated on all purchases of nine to 40 cents. However, the tax remains unchanged on all purchases over 41 cents.

The reduction, expected to save Ohioans 12 to 15 million dollars a year, is the second to be placed in effect since the "temporary" sales tax was instituted in 1934. The first was the elimination of the tax on food for consumption off the premises.

Youngsters Plan To Show Models Built At Park

"Look, Mommy, that's my plane!"
Bright shining eyes and cheeks flushed with pride will be pointed toward downtown Circleville store windows Saturday when exhibits they "put together with my own hands" are displayed.

Brilliantly colored planes, trains and ships are to be the center of attraction to which "mommy" will be tugged. From an advance glance, parents will have just cause to be proud of their "artist".

The objects viewed are to be models made by the youngsters at Ted Lewis Park Summer playground, and contain several weeks of work and painstaking devotion.

Jim Kirkpatrick, supervisor for the Kiwanis-sponsored Summer program, said he would "make sure" the planes got in to the store windows.

While finishing the models, the youngsters also will keep on their regular recreational schedule.

Tuesday's activities called for a Class AA second round softball league game between the Cowboys and Indians and hardball practice in the morning, with the Scrapbook Club, art class and volleyball league games in the afternoon. The art class is under direction of Mrs. John Heiskell.

Schedule for Wednesday calls for a hardball game between the Yankees and Athletics, board games, girls' softball game between the Panthers and Yellow Jackets, a checker tournament and a Jacks tournament.

Special feature of the week in the playground schedule has
